TULSA, Okla., June 9.—Indians, representing every tribe in the country, came pouring into Tulsa for the first "get-together" National meet, opened today at Sand Springs Park, near here.

The plutocratic Osages arrived in the finest limousines, while the Cheyennes, Kiowas, Quapaws, Pawnees, Iowas, Poncas, Ojibwas, Shawnees, Mohawks, Caddos, Sax and Fox, Arapahoes, Choctaws, Creeks, Seminoles, Comanches, Black Feet, Chippewas, and Pottowamies came in all manner of vehicles, on train and some on horseback.

Approximately 15,000 were expected to have arrived by noon today for the greatest Indian gathering in the history of the country.

Blanket Indians mingled with the ultra-modern Osages—"Brave Warriors" from Montana and Wyoming—paying rapt attention to the pretty eighth and sixteenth blood Indian girls.

Types of every description are crowded into the park with the proverbial "hunk of jerked beef" hanging on a pole in front of the tent. This "jerked beef" is said to be very fine when boiled.

Among the notables here are "Bacon Rind," the picturesque Osage, Blue Hair, of the Ojibwas, said to be 90 years old and H. C. Sicade, squally-puyallup tribe of Washington state.

LOWDEN LIKELY TO BE RUN BY
G. O. P. FOR V. P.

CLEVELAND, June 9.—The republican convention is likely to "wish" the vice presidency on Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, despite his assertion that he did not want the place. "No man ever refused the vice presidency after he is chosen," delegations who announced that they would vote for him declared. Senator Richard P. Ernst of Kentucky, a strong supporter of President Coolidge, was designated as chairman of the rules committee of the convention.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 9.—The "Vice Presidential convention," as it has come to be called, now has an open battle on for selection of President Coolidge's running mate.

The statement, issued by former Governor Frank O. Lowden yesterday that he cannot accept the nomination, "even if it were tendered me," has thrown the lists open to all comers.

While still pointing out that if the convention simply stampeded for Lowden, the Illinoisan would be compelled to acquiesce, political leaders here are inclined to think that someone else will be nominated. Secretary of Commerce Hoover has reason to worry lest the choice fall in his direction, and Dr. Marion Leroy Burton of Michigan, who will nominate Coolidge, is now being openly, instead of quietly put out for re-election by Coolidge supporters.

In fact from Coast to Coast, the retirement of Lowden brought a veritable deluge of candidates. Senator Curtis of Kansas, drew much support from the women; Chas. B. Warren of Michigan was named as a strong potential contender; Senator Jones of Washington entered the lists; Frank B. Mondell was suggested but demurred saying he was first, last and always for Lowden; General Dawes continued to receive mention and Chas. C. Chapman of California found himself the center of quite a boom.

Lodge Is Beaten
By Massachusetts
League of Women

By DOROTHY SHUMATE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 9.—When Wanning H. Cox was elected Governor of Massachusetts last fall the many of the Democratic campaign against him wrote and told him that he could thank the women voters for his election. When Governor Cox today was elected Chairman of the Massachusetts delegation to the Republican National convention some of the delegation members in his car that he could thank the women again.

It isn't that the women love Governor Cox more; it is that they love Senator Henry Cabot Lodge less.

Ever since suffrage became an issue, the political minded women of the God-fish state have been drifting away from the loyalty that is supposed to be due their eldest statesman. The drift has carried them a long way—so far that today while they were at it, they helped finish Mr. Lodge completely so far as the present convention is concerned.

They even refused to let him have a place on the resolutions committee, instead they threw their support to Speaker Gillett.

The women have 16 members in the Massachusetts delegation—exactly one half of the total—and they are there not entirely as an expression of old fashioned Boston courtesy. They are a real power in the State. They have their own ideas of what constitutes a good Republican this year; their idea being that it is one who supports President Coolidge on all occasions. That lets Lodge out and by the same token, the women are interested in keeping him out.

The Massachusetts women who have already an equal reputation on the state central committee are taking a very active part in the effort to obtain equal reputation on the Republican National committee. The Democratic party has given this to the women and the fight for it at this convention of the Republicans is decidedly earnest. Having easily lined up their own members of the rules committee they are actively engaged in plugging the rules committee members from other state delegations.

Wisconsin Man
Throws Bomb
Into Plans
Of G. O. P.

By ROBERT J. BENDER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

CLEVELAND, June 9.—Senator Robert La Follette has charged the Republican National convention to condemn and repudiate former attorney general Harry M. Daugherty and former secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall.

Furthermore he calls upon the convention for a ballot approving those Republicans who voted for the recent tax reduction bill, asks a Republican pledge not to support the Mellon tax program and demands applause for those Republicans instrumental in carrying on recent probes of alleged Governmental irregularities.

Decision to toss this bomb into the calm and quiet of the convention proceedings was reached by the Wisconsin delegation at a meeting held last night. Following the meeting Gov. John J. Blaine, delegate at large from Wisconsin announced that the state's representative on the resolutions committee would be instructed to introduce and urge passage by the convention by these resolutions:

1. That congress be summoned into extraordinary session in July for the immediate consideration of agriculture, bonus, transportation and reclamation legislation.

2. That former Attorney General Daugherty be specifically condemned and repudiated by the Republican party and forever disbarred from holding any position of honor or trust under a Republican administration.

3. That former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall be specifically condemned and repudiated by the party and forever disbarred from holding any position of honor or trust under a republican administration.

4. That those Republicans who voted for the recent tax bill passed by this congress be commended and that the convention pledge itself that "neither the Mellon plan nor any other tax bill providing for unwarranted reductions in the super taxes on multimillionaires shall receive the support of the Republican party."

5. That the individual Senators, Norris of Nebraska, Couzens of Michigan; Reed of Pennsylvania; Odie of Nevada; Howell of Nebraska; Brookhart of Iowa; Borah of Idaho

and La Follette be commended for their efforts, respectively in opposing the Ford of Muscle Shoals, in uncovering prohibition and irregular revenue frauds; in disclosing graft and corruption in the veterans bureau; in disclosing prevalent conditions in that bureau; in exposing serious mal administration of the farm loan act; in department of justice scandals; in the probe of Senator Wheeler's indictment and in the oil investigation.

There are seven resolutions in all—each packing trouble and embarrassment for the administration if permitted to reach the stage of convention deliberation that will bring a vote. There is little likelihood, however, of the convention Chairman letting the resolutions get this far.

In demanding return of Congress July 7, La Follette lists the following legislation as his reasons.

Emergency agriculture relief; funds to carry out provisions of the soldier bonus; the Howell-Barkley bill for settlement of disputes between carriers and their employees; reduction of railroad rates and reclamation relief.

The resolutions regarding Fall and Daugherty are identical. Each charges "gross betrayal of public trust" which has brought "Shame and discredit" upon the Republican party. The resolutions demand that the actions of each man be "Condemned and Repudiated as being incompatible with the principles and traditions of the Republican party" and that each man "be forever barred from holding any position of honor or trust within the gift either of the Republican party or of any future Republican administration."

In asking a vote of congratulation for the 31 Republican Senators and 211 Republican congressmen who voted for the recent tax bill substitution for the Mellon plan, one resolution would pledge the convention "that neither the Mellon plan, nor any other tax bill providing for unwarranted reductions in the super-taxes of Multimillionaires and profiteering corporations, shall receive the support of the Republican party in any future session of congress."

The resolution of commendation for those Senators who have been active in recent investigations follows the precedent set by the convention of four years ago in which praise for Congress and individuals was placed in the platform. The Wisconsin delegations resolutions puts the relief square up to the G. O. P.

Resolved that this convention extends its approval and the commendation to the following Republican members of the Senate for their exceptional services in the public interest and for the credit they have reflected upon the Republican party:

STUDENTS TO BE CALLED ON IN MURDER CASE
IN CHICAGO

By EDWARD C. DEER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, June 9.—Squads of officers from the office of State's Attorney R. E. Crowe invaded the university of Chicago campus today in search of students able to testify that Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, confessed slayers of Robert Franks, 11-year-old school boy, were sane. Believing that their case against Leopold and Loeb is "absolute," Crowe's aides started a secondary defense against the "defense." Assured that Clarence Darrow, chief defense counsel will attempt to save the two young college graduates from the gallows by proving them insane, the state is making effort to refute the test of alienists.

"We will get as many college friends of these boys as possible," an attaché of Crowe's office said, "to tell what they know of the habits of Leopold and Loeb. We are sure that their stories will bear weight with a trial jury and will show that the murders were of sound mind."

"Testimony of those who knew Leopold and Loeb should mean much more than that of so-called expert alienists."

Crowe's staff, announced they had "new evidence" against the young intellectuals, who "just for the fun of it," kidnapped and killed young Franks. "The new evidence" it was consists of pencil-scribbled notes written by both Leopold and Loeb when their confessions were being read. Each took notes of the other's confession in order to check back on slight discrepancies.

These notes, it was explained, are in the youths' own hand writing and will be admitted as evidence even though the trial judges should throw out the actual confessions as evidence. The notes much like those taken by college students at a class room lecture, were written hastily and abbreviated as the confessions were read to them.

MONDELL TO PRESIDE AT G. O. P. MEET.

FRANK W. MONDELL

Frank W. Mondell, of Wyoming, former floor leader in the House of Representatives and now chairman of the War Finance Corporation, has been selected to be permanent chairman of the Republican National Convention in Cleveland, O.

CHAIRMAN BURTON TYPICAL OF OLD GUARD IN POLITICS

CLEVELAND, June 9 (United Press).—Theodore E. Burton, the lean and dignified temporary chairman of the Republican National Convention, typifies exactly in his somewhat character of the present national administration—the administration which, following the convention here, will appeal to the country for a return to power.

When Burton gets up to speak, his audience will know better than to expect any of those things from him: Flights of oratory; Attempts at humor; Funny stories.

His address of welcome to the convention and his keynote for the campaign will be cut from a sober pattern, with none of the new fol-de-rols of the young political generation. It will be a straightforward conservative model, of the sort Burton was brought upon, politically.

Yet Burton has considerable skill as a party orator. He knows, as the result of many years in congress, how to array his facts to capture the attention of his hearers. He has an easy task here, for the audience he faces will be a strongly pro-Coolidge audience—practically a unanimously Coolidge audience, in fact. He will not have to combat the hostility of delegates favoring some other candidate. They will be ready to cheer every mention of the present administration and its head.

A Native of Ohio, Burton, chosen by President Coolidge himself for the keynoting position has served a long and useful career in his party. He is a native of these parts, having been born in Jefferson, Ohio, in 1851, which makes him 73. His education was calculated to make of him the sober, conservative person he has always been, for he attended Oberlin college, an Ohio institution noted for the earnestness of its educational purpose. Later he went to Dartmouth and New York universities.

Back in 1875, before Cleveland began shouting about its size and got into rivalry with Detroit over which was bigger, Burton hung out his lawyer's shingle here. In those days some of the mightiest men of the law in this section were getting under way and you had to be a pretty thorough lawyer to compete with them. Burton got along.

He got along so well that in 1888 he was elected to the House of Representatives, serving in the 51st and 54th congresses, and then right along to the 60th. Once he got into congress, Burton soon became known as a devotee of facts. He would pursue a fact to its lair in a mountain of statistics, and drag it relentlessly forth. He also developed a strong party loyalty which brought him to the notice of the leaders. Burton didn't have to be told what to do; he had a mind of his own that made itself up, but the party leaders were pleased to find that his mind usually made itself up their way.

Burton soon came to the front as a waterways expert. He studied the question of inland waterways from every angle, one of these being the angle of "pork." In those days the rivers and harbors appropriation bill was the choice medium of those who wanted to get something for the folks at home out of the public treasury, as a means of continuing in politics. Many a dusty stream had good money spent on it in this manner.

Fought Against "Pork."

Burton set out to fight this practice. The climax of his fight came in the senate, to which body he was elevated by his state in 1909. There he, with the help of progressives, principally Senator Kenyon of Iowa, conducted an all night filibuster against a rivers and harbors bill full of "pork." Burton put on carpet slippers and a bathrobe and drank milk while he read into the records a mass of words from some ponderous tome, in order to keep the senate from acting on the bill.

Along with his expert knowledge concerning waterways, Burton acquired an equally expert knowledge of

Major Parties Divide The Air

CLEVELAND, June 9.—Radio will broadcast the keynote speech of Representative Theodore E. Burton before the Republican National Convention here tomorrow to the four corners of the country.

Special arrangements have been perfected whereby Burton's speech will be audible to everybody who cares to listen to it. A number of the biggest stations in the country will take care of relaying it.

This is part of a special agreement between the Republican and Democratic national committees for a "division of the air" during the

finance. So when he retired from the senate in 1915, he went into banking, and until he reentered public life in 1920, as a member of the House, he was a banker. He was chosen by President Harding as a member of the American commission to fund the European war debts.

Burton is a bachelor. He is a tall, thin homely man, with severe look on his face. He looks like one whom the ordinary gayeties and frivolities of life have entirely passed by, principally because he never held out his hand to stop any of them.

campaign. Realizing that the radio, for the first time, will be one of the principal means of campaigning Cordell Hull, the Democratic chairman, and John T. Adams, Republican chief, got together in Washington some weeks ago to map out an equitable division of radio facilities, so that neither party would obtain an advantage over the other.

Under this arrangement, which has been ratified by the leading broadcasters, the air will thus be bipartisan.

SPENT FORTUNE BEFORE SHE FOUND HER HEALTH

Mrs. Vanter Failed to Get Relief Until She Took Tanlac.

"I had suffered a long time and spent lots of money before I found the right medicine for my troubles, but since I found the right one I have stuck to it," recently said Mrs. S. E. Vanter, 114 Aganier Ave., San Antonio, Texas, in a statement in which she praises Tanlac for restoring and maintaining her health.

"Tanalac started me on the mend from the very first dose and in less than a month I was feeling like a new woman. Before that my stomach would go wrong every two or three days whether I ate much or little, and gas bloating, cramping pains and nervous headaches tortured me daily.

"I could not sleep half enough and got up mornings feeling nauseated and without the least desire for breakfast. This condition kept me feeling tired, listless and miserable in both mind and body. Before I had even finished my third bottle of Tanlac such a wonderful change had come over me that I was astonished.

"I couldn't seem to satisfy my appetite, everything agreed with me and strength came back and I was like a person made over. Since then I have relied on Tanlac to keep up my health and it has not failed me. In fact a bottle of Tanlac now and then keeps me enjoying the best of health. I never have any trouble with my stomach and nerves, I sleep like a child and have energy in reserve. Tanlac came as an unexpected blessing to me and I do not hesitate to praise it to everybody."

SUPERB PITCHING AND STRONG SUPPORT WIN FOR MEXIA

Peel Pitches A Great Game Before Big Crowd

Backing Everett Peel's superb pitching with air tight support the Gushers won the opening game of the series from the Corsicana Oilers at the ball yard Sunday before a big crowd and thusly knocked the tribe of Johnny Vann out of first place as the Waco Indians won from Austin while Marlin kept ahead of the Gushers by winning over Temple. The game was strictly a pitchers battle with Peel getting the better of Arguilo in every department except wildness but as none of Peel's passes proved a run getter that fact does not mar his splendid performance against the hard-hitting Oilers. Mexia scored first the second frame when Jones opened the round with a single to right. Heving bunted a sacrifice to Thornton. Bryan singled to left but Etheridge held Jones on third with a fast relay. Leedy hit a long drive over Brown's head in center that the wind caught enough to hold it within the park and the Oilers center fielder made the catch against the center field fence and Jones trotted over the pan with what proved the winning run. On a still day Leedy's drive would have wrecked the new clubhouse at Groesbeck. Another tally was added in the third when Harding was safe while Sain was throwing out the Skipper at second. A passed ball put the big first sacker on second and he scored a moment later on Butler's single to center. The last counter came over in the eighth when Butler opened the round with a triple down the right field foul line and the pellet kindly hid behind the club house while O'Hearne later on Joe Heving's double to left. The Oilers threatened in the fifth when Barrett opened the frame with a walk and was thrown out. Fowler to Squibb when he attempted to steal on the first pitched ball. Indeed like poor baseball at this stage of the game. Malmquist also worked Everett for a pass but Sain and Vann were taken care of by the fast working Gusher infield. Arguilo opened the sixth with a single to center but was caught on the next play when Etheridge hit to Geppert and the Teague flash completed a fast double play. Things looked bad for a moment in the ninth when Grubb opened the frame with a double to right-center and Thornton worked Peel for a pass. Brown hit a long foul to left but Butler was waiting on the line for the play and made a great catch near the east fence. Barrett was up and things still looked bad but Geppert grabbed his hard drive and completed a fast double play to Harding for the game's finish. Skipper Fowler worked Peel in masterful fashion from behind the plate and easily threw out Thornton and Barrett in their attempts to steal. The heavy hitting Oilers were helpless before Peel and the kid deserves the credit due him for his great work. Geppert's work at short was fast as well as brilliant as was the work of Jones and Leedy all of whom made great stops and throws. Butler handled five of the six putouts handled by the outfield and three of his catches were easily worth the money. Joe Heving handled the other outer garden putout and was with two on the sacks and two in the ash can when Sain hit a high drive that I thought Joe had misjudged but the lanky bird made a great run and made the catch. Corsicana again today and it looks like Carl Hill against either Crockett or Gernandt the little southpaw. Carl should beat either and here's hoping there is a great multitude on hand to see the frains. If you fans get out there and stay behind the gang you will soon see them on top of the ladder. Glenwood Meeks joins the Gushers today and will take his regular turn on the mound and this boy should make the Gushers hard to catch from now on. Meeks has been a consistent winner with Marlin and why Alexander let him go is a mystery.

Five-Mile Double-Line of Cars In Maccabees Caravan

J. B. SAWTELL, TEXAS GREAT COMMANDER

DETROIT — Largest problem ever undertaken in automobile transport is that of the Maccabees motor caravan which will be concentrated at Washington in the summer of 1935. According to plans made public by A. W. Frye, supreme commander of the Maccabees, at headquarters of the fraternal benevolent order here, the state caravans will muster more than 2,000 automobiles.

"When mobilized in a solid body the Maccabees automobile caravan could enter Washington two abreast in a procession five miles long," said Mr. Frye. With their hands and sectional leaders the total number of persons will be half the size of a regular army division.

"Army transport veterans are cooperating with the American Automobile Association in planning the service of gasoline, oil, emergency repairs, and other supplies for this unprecedented army of automobiles. Methods of parking the caravan in Washington are being worked out with the War Department.

"The Maccabees caravan will consume more than $1,000,000 worth of food while in the National Capital. It will spend $70,000 for gasoline in the two weeks and, it is estimated, will leave $2,000,000 more in Washington. The caravan is composed of representatives of the more than 200,000 members of the Maccabees who are organized in 4,500 local tents throughout the United States and Canada. It is probable that fellow members will accompany the caravan in such numbers as nearly to double its size. Regulations already on file with state commanders insure that it will be the greatest automobile army ever assembled by any one organization."

Ankles, Knees and Brains Worry Philadelphia Talkers

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—What has the size of a woman's ankle to do with the size of her brain?

The question is perturbing biologists and scientists of Philadelphia following the decree of Paul Poirer, French fashion dictator, that "thick ankles mean weak knees and tiny brains."

A poll of ten Philadelphia women, picked at random, revealed the fact that seven of them had thin ankles, nine of them strong knees and ten of them bright brains.

"This is all nonsense," declared one clubwoman. "If a woman has any sense she doesn't allow her ankles to become thick. It seems to me that this answers your question. Diet and the proper amount of exercise will keep women from slopping over at the ankles, and any sensible woman will see to it that she has the proper diet and exercise."

"M. Poirer is correct," said another. "The woman who gets out and does things, the woman who has the real sense, doesn't take time to see that her ankles are thick. It is only the flighty young woman who likes to show her ankles on a dance floor or on the street that gives thought to such things."

"Look at the girls at Bryn Mawr. I doubt if you could find a more brainy or sensible lot of girls. Yet, generally speaking, Bryn Mawr is a big-ankle college—big ankled, strong kneed and big brained."

One of Philadelphia's students of psychology is inclined to take the view that there really is no connection between the size of the ankle and the depth of the brain of a woman.

"A woman's ankles and her brain are entirely separate organisms," he declared. "If the ankle grows it does not necessarily follow, as M. Poirer seems to believe, that the brain will also grow. The brain and the ankle are certainly not twins."

"Do you think the growth of the ankle can be controlled by the brain?" he was asked.

"Only to a certain extent," was the reply. "If a young woman is desirous of preserving emaciated ankles, and I'm not saying it isn't a good thing to do, then her brain, if she has one, will direct that she doesn't do too much walking and that she doesn't eat those things which she ought not to eat."

Boxing Enigma To Be Solved

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, June 9.—Tonight at Queensboro Stadium, weather permitting, the wraps come off a true dark horse of the ring, and fans will learn whether Harry Wills, that Ethiopian enigma, represents a potential million dollars or is headed back to the docks.

The big black, long kept in the back ground by broken hands and broken contracts, has become a sort of bogie man of fistiana.

Even that promising new-comer to Hollywood, Jack Dempsey, on his road to a million dollar gate with Senor Firpo, chose a path around the wood where the black panther prowled.

Upon the willing shoulders of a stout hearted Irish lad, one Bartley Madden, who meets Wills over the 15 round route tonight if it doesn't rain, has been placed the task of deciding whether Harry is headed on up to fistie fortune or back to the wide spaces of the river front, where Men are longshoremen.

Butler The Silent To Steer Campaign

CLEVELAND, June 9.—(United Press.)—In keeping with the silent nature of his chief—Calvin Coolidge—all noise will be eliminated from the Republican machine with William Morgan Butler of Massachusetts at the wheel. The President has already named Butler to manage his campaign and he will be selected as chairman of the new Republican National Committee when it organizes this week.

A product of the "Iceni" school of politics, established in Massachusetts by the late Senator Murray Crane, Butler learned to saw wood while the other fellow whooped things up.

While Crane had the reputation of never having raised his voice above a whisper, Butler talks out loud when he speaks—but he seldom speaks. What he lacks as a conversationalist, he makes up as a listener.

What could be more natural for President Coolidge, himself the "star" pupil of the noisier Crane, to select the close-mouthed, efficient, business-man-politician, as the director of his campaign for election to the Presidency?

Although the stocky, well-groomed Boston lawyer presents the typical picture of the big business man that he is, he was not born with a silver spoon in his mouth. Born Jan. 29, 1861, in the old whaling village of New Bedford, Mass., the son of a Methodist minister, Butler had a hard row to hoe before he reached success and affluence.

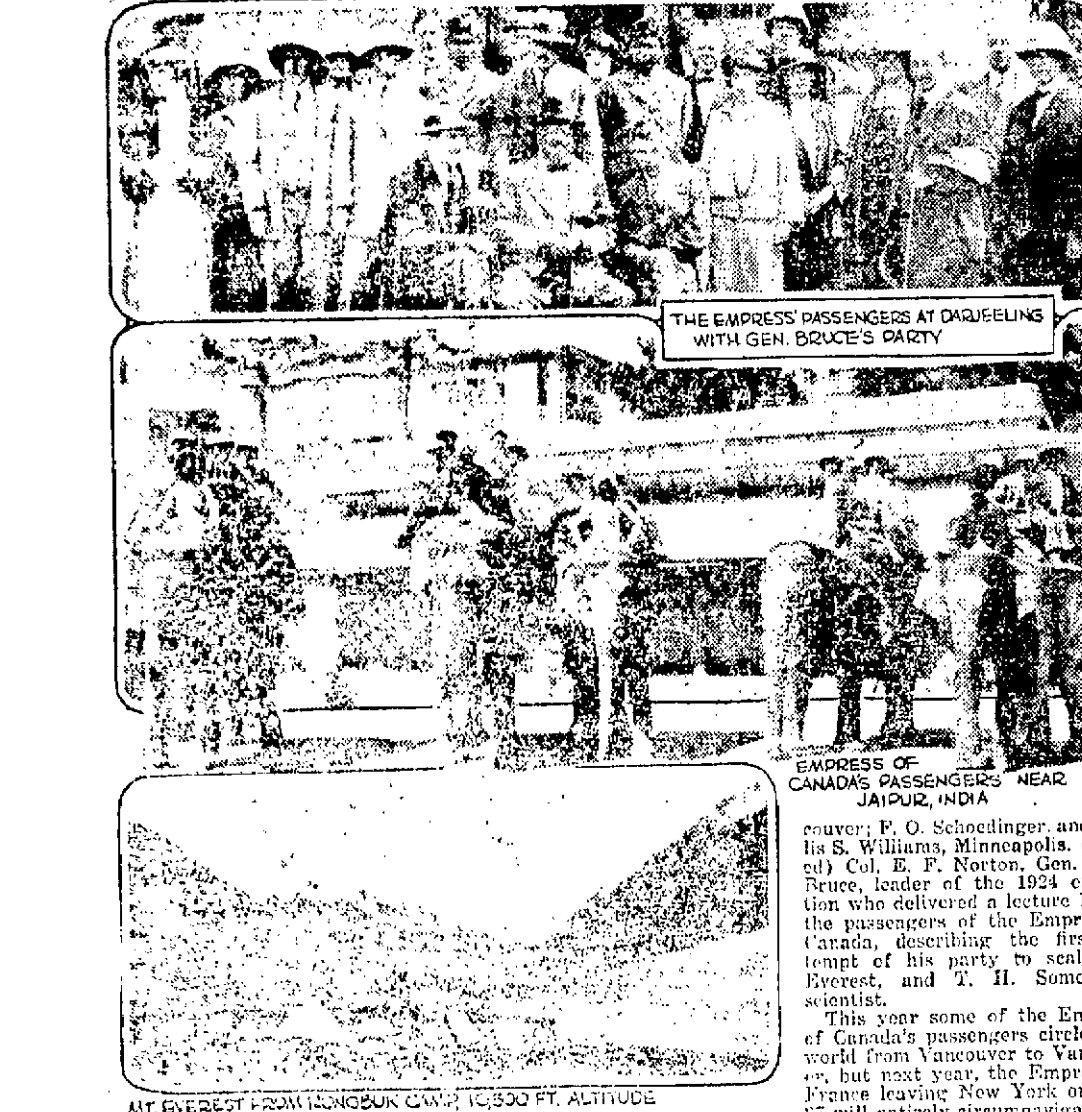

This descendant of a long line of Cape Codders was once a clerk in a general store while he was studying law. After practicing in his hometown for a few years, Butler was elected to the legislature in 1890. He went "down" to Boston in a $12 blue serge suit, as "green" as they come, but was not long in demonstrating his ability and attracting the attention of "Uncle Murray" Crane.

Two years later, he was elected to the State Senate, and then president of the Senate. That was the highest political office Butler ever held. Although taking an inconspicuous part in active politics, he has had a hand in most of the major politics in Massachusetts ever since.

Always a conservative, Butler has gone along with the Republican organization in the Bay State as one of the elder advisers, contributing liberally in all campaigns. With the death of Murray Crane, he became the leader of the Crane faction in Massachusetts.

Butler early gave up his political career for the law business. He opened a law office in Boston and soon developed a large corporate practice. Then he bought an interest in a cotton mill in New Bedford. That was the foundation of his fortune, for now a

This year some of the Empress of Canada's passengers circled the world from Vancouver to Vancouver, but next year the Empress of France leaving New York on Jan. 27 will entirely circumnavigate the globe from New York to New York, via the Panama Canal. Globe trotting by water, with land excursions galore, has become quite the fad nowadays. Shakespeare's Puck, for in advice of his time and little dreaming of the swiftness of radio, and to could put a globe around the earth in 40 minutes.

A modern, luxurious steamship like the Empress of Canada or the Empress of France, when compared with the ships of Magellan and Columbus, is as wonderful in its way in speed and today's globe trotter sees the strange peoples of the world in comfort and under circumstances never dreamed of by the early explorers who sailed the Seven Seas.

Titled Russian Gives Recipe for "Plov"

COOKING is a fine art, says Baroness Tamara Stolsheff, whom the fortunes of war have brought from her native Russian Caucasus to New York, where she is utilizing as a means of livelihood an art which formerly served her as a diversion—the painting of scarfs in vivid, exotic colorings. Baroness Stolsheff is also an author and musician of no slight merit, but like many of her countrywomen she does not disdain the homelier but no less important art of cooking, and has dozens of delightful recipes literally at her finger's ends.

She has consented to give us her recipe for "Plov," a native dish of the Russian Caucasus:

Boil 4 cups of rice in 2 quarts of water so that the kernels are not too soft and are separate. Put in olive and wash with ice water so that each kernel stands alone. Dry rice with cloth and put in frying pan under the flame and shake until it is completely dried out.

In a separate pot, boil 1 cup of raisins and 1/2 cup of dried peaches until they are soft. Dry them with cloth and put in 1/2 cup of crisco which has come to the boiling point. Put fruit and crisco in

"Style changes, but since the time of Salvo himself there have always been styles. Two hundred years ago the nobles of France and England indulged their eyesight with an exceedingly dainty little lens, which they called a quizzical. The name is pertinent. The little glass itself, mounted in its beautifully chased gold frame, something like a watch indeed, had a quizzical look. One can picture flappers, broadened, and powdered ladies of the Court training it with telling effect. The lozenge is its granddaughter, and the monocle, so snally with stick and spurs, and, really, its grander.

"There sporting glasses the great rearing follows with heavy horn frames—a direct imitation from China, but not the China of today. The same China which supplied the world with porcelain and the emperor. The creative China of the middle centuries. A great many a helmsman, China and not Siam, was the Monk, with the twinkled of spectacles.

"The Chinese ground their first lens out of solid blocks of topaz, and the greater the man the larger his spectacles. The Chinese still wear horn-rimmed spectacles, but the buy them in America for the sight of young country dominated the spectacle market, as it does a number of others.

"Goggles and leather goggles were popular in Europe in the 17th century. The lenses of frames being put in a frame convenient for horsemen. Another goggles are a harking back to the general concepts of the leather frame goggles."

England To Send 400 To Olympic Games

By P. M. SABL (United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, June 9.—With the exception of the boxing and cross-country teams, the British Olympic competitors have not yet been chosen, and the field and track contestants will not be finally selected until after the Amateur Athletic Championships on June 20 and 21.

However, the British Olympic Association reckons on sending to Paris a team numbering some 400 competitors, a number in excess of all previous efforts. This, despite the comparative lack of interest in Olympics in this country and the disinclination of many of the governing bodies of the various branches of sport to select teams at the bidding of the British Olympic Association.

Among all the nations competing in the Olympics, Britain, for many years reckoned as the cradle of sport, is the worst organized. The British Olympic Association is a relatively helpless body, which does nothing but supply funds and arrange hotel accommodation for competitors, and receives very little support from the various governing bodies of British sport.

The different governing bodies are old-standing institutions, while the British Olympic Association is comparatively a newcomer. And none of the governing bodies is willing to concede the B. O. A. any sort of jurisdiction over their own particular branch of sport. And there is no possible way of enforcing the authority of the body responsible for the turning out of an international team to represent Great Britain at the Olympic games. Some bodies flatly refuse to have anything to do with the Olympics.

Britain will doubtless be strongly represented at polo, because the games happen to coincide with the height of the British polo season, and it is not very far to send to Paris. However, the polo authorities indicated very plainly that the International trail

POWER COMFORT

Dramatic And Musical Recital Enjoyable Affair

The Methodist church was comfortably filled Friday night by relatives and friends of the pupils of Mrs. E. L. Strange and Mrs. Sam B. Werner who assembled to witness the recital presented by the little ones.

The program consisted of drills, readings and musical numbers and the different numbers were presented in a manner that showed careful training and application, and Mrs. Strange and Mrs. Werner should be proud of their work with these children.

The program was sufficiently long to forego encores, but one number by little Mary Jane Crow was too good and the audience insisted on a further reading by the little miss, which she graciously responded to with another cute reading.

Space will not permit of special mention of each number, but all deserved it.

The pupils are all little tots, ranging in age from 3 to 10, and their numbers were all heartily enjoyed by the audience, and many beautiful floral offerings were sent up to the little ones.

HAVE YOU BEEN SOLICITED THIS WAY OF LATE?

Progress is being made even in campaigning. Here's the latest method. The candidate goes into a store or place of business or somewhere else where some voters are talking together. He greets all graciously, says "have a card" and something about grasshoppers or some other subject. About that time a friend shows up, greets the candidate boisterously and cordially. They pass a few friendly words and the candidate passes on to some other point previously agreed on and the friend then makes the campaign talk which usually assumes the form of what a fine fellow the candidate is. After he finishes, he retreats and meets the candidate again and so on, time after time, reminding one of the story of the ten little bottles sitting on the wall. It is claimed that the plan is very successful, but the women in politics are going to have a little trouble adopting it, as they prefer to speak for themselves.

Mr. Jimmie Anderson and sister, Mrs. Mary Henson, are planning a visit to the old home, in Denmark and while away will visit other points in Europe.

as such commission, signed such proposed charter and duly provided for the submission of the same to a vote of the qualified voters of said City, at an election to be held upon the question of the adoption or rejection of such charter upon the 7th day of July, 1924; and

WHEREAS, the said Charter Commission provided that the present City Commission shall call an election for such purpose; and

WHEREAS, the said Charter Commission will ratify and confirm and make the enactment of this ordinance its act and deed, and will make such ordinance its order for such election, all of which will be evidenced by the signature of the members of said Charter Commission, appended hereto under the words: "APPROVED BY CHARTER COMMISSION"; therefore,

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF MEXIA, TEXAS:

Section 1. That an election shall be held in the City of Mexia, Texas, on the 7th day of July, 1924, at which the following proposition shall be submitted:

"Shall the charter reported by the Charter Commission to the City Commission of the City of Mexia, Texas, on the 27th day of May, 1924, and which had been prepared by the Charter Commission duly elected by the qualified voters of the city of the 18th day of March, 1924, be adopted as the charter of the City of Mexia, Texas, as contemplated and authorized by the Constitution and laws of the State of Texas, including Chapter 147, Acts of 1913, Regular Session?"

Section 2. That the polling places and presiding officers of said election shall be, respectively as follows: the polling place shall be at the City Hall, in the City of Mexia, and W. B. Kendrick is hereby designated as presiding officer.

Section 3. That said election shall be held under the provisions of Chapter 147, Acts of 1913, Regular Session, and all persons qualified to vote in said City under the laws of this State regulating general elections shall be allowed to vote.

Section 4. That the manner of holding said election shall be governed by the general laws of the State of Texas, regulating general elections, when not in conflict with the provisions of the law hereinabove referred to.

Section 5. All voters desiring to sion duly elected on the 18th day of March, 1924, and which was reported by said Charter Commission to the City Commission of the City of Mexia on the 27th day of May, 1924." And those opposed shall have on their ballots the following:

"Against the adoption of the Charter prepared by the Charter Commission duly elected on the 18th day of March, 1924, and which was reported by said Charter Commission to the City Commission of the City of Mexia on the 27th day of May, 1924."

Section 6. That the action of the aforesaid Charter Commission in calling the election for the purpose hereinabove stated, and in all other respects, with reference to the framing and submitting of such proposed charter, are hereby ratified and confirmed, and the said Charter Commission, or the members thereof, shall ratify and confirm all things done by the present City Commission of the City of Mexia, Texas, with respect to the matters and things dealt with in this ordinance, and shall make the same their act and deed by subscribing their respective names hereunto under the caption, "APPROVED BY CHARTER COMMISSION," and such names as so subscribed shall be published as a part of this ordinance.

Section 7. A copy of this ordinance shall be sufficient notice of said election, and thirty (30) days notice of the time and place of holding the said election shall be given by posting certified copies thereof at the places designated for holding said election at least thirty (30) days prior to the holding of said election, and by publication of such notice not less than thirty (30) full days from date of election.

Section 8. The fact that the City of Mexia is at the present time with out a charter and that the public interests require the adoption of a charter, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity for the suspension of the rules requiring ordinances to be read upon more than one day and for the immediate taking effect of this ordinance, and such rules are hereby suspended, and it is ordained that this ordinance shall take effect immediately upon its passage and approval.

Passed and approved this 27th day of May, 1924.

Ex-Gov. Lowden In Limelight For Vice-Presidency

CLEVELAND, June 7 (United Press).—Frank Orestes Lowden once came within the proverbial ace of becoming the nominee of his party for the presidency. This was no longer age than the last national convention. All through the conv. hall, and in hotel corridors, the word was heard that on the morrow Lowden would be swept across the line separating a certainty.

But there was a hitch—a hitch that was not Lowden's fault, but that of some of his over-enthusiastic henchmen. And on the morrow another was nominated.

Since that time, Lowden has been living quietly, glad, if the truth were told, to be out of the fierce limelight of public life. Now his party speaks of him again in connection with the vice-presidency. He will have a strong following in the national convention here for that post and unless his compatriot from Illinois, "Hell and Maria" Dawes is chosen, Lowden seems to have a good chance.

Lowden is a son of Minnesota. He was born in Sunrise City, which was so named, according to rumor, because everybody who lives there gets up to see the sun come up.

Just to keep his middle western view point on straight, Lowden attended Iowa University and there contracted a habit of leading his classes that followed him to Union law college in Chicago. He was valedictorian at both institutions, which speaks something for the character of his scholarship and his ability to buckle down to work.

The law and good government have always been Lowden's hobbies. He also likes blooded cattle and farming in all its phases.

He practiced law for a good many years, finding time also to teach it at Northwestern University. He married, in 1896, Florence Pullman, daughter of the man who headed the Pullman Car Company.

Lowden served in the House in the 59th, 60th and 61st congress, and was a member of the Republican national committee from 1904 to 1912. He was one of the executive committee that conducted the national campaign of 1904 and 1908. In 1917 he was elected governor of Illinois, serving until 1921.

Lowden has one of the most pleasing personalities in public life. He combines dignity with geniality. He makes a good speech, and has a fully developed mind that works on all cylinders when he tackles a problem. Lowden is fond of outdoor life. He is 63 years old.

Bankers' Children Soon to Marry.

ANNE STILLMAN,
H. P. DAVISON.

Mrs. James A. Stillman has announced the engagement of her daughter, Anne, to H. P. Davison, son of the late H. P. Davison, former partner of J. P. Morgan & Co., and former head of the U. S. Cross. Miss Stillman is the daughter of James A. Stillman, former president of the National City Bank, of New York, and when her father began his famous unsuccessful divorce suit she remained with her mother, but remained on good terms with both parents. Mr. Davison won several valor medals as an aviator in bombing German submarine bases in the World War.

WARREN ARRIVES WITH PLANKS FOR PARTY PLATFORM

CLEVELAND, June 9.—Elimination of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge as an important factor in the Republican convention and capitulation of Senator James Watson and others to President Coolidge's insistence on a plank recommending American participation in the existing World Court at the Hague, makes it possible now to set forth this year's platform in its important details.

Chas. B. Warren, who will be the chairman of platform committee, has arrived with the main planks already decided upon by Coolidge supporters, and his will be the job of putting through the platform with as little delay and opposition as possible.

As always, the party principles will be led off with a preamble setting forth the accomplishments of the Harding-Coolidge administration—the improvement of business conditions, economies effected from the budget system, tax reduction and increased revenue obtained from the tariff act; reduction of the national debt and beneficial legislation passed for various classes of the population.

Among the planks will be:

1. While much has been done to improve conditions in agriculture there is still more to be done in the direction of co-operative marketing as advocated by the platform of 1920; there should be readjustment of freight rates.
2. The Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway should be opened and interior waterways improved to afford an outlet for agricultural areas.
3. A taxation plan similar to that proposed by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.
4. The prohibition law should be enforced because disregard of any law begets disrespect for all law.
5. Rigid economy in public expenses and a firm stand against any
"pork barrel" legislation.
6. Support of the constitutional amendment to prevent child labor.
7. Support of a constitutional amendment providing terms of the President and member of congress will open.

begin in January following the election instead of March.

8. Conservative regulation of corporations.
9. Extension of the merit system to decrease problems of patronage.
10. Extension of American loans for rehabilitation and development of Europe, once the foreign countries accept the recommendation of the Dawes committee.
11. American participation in the International court of justice established and now functioning at the Hague.
12. The calling of a conference for a further limitation of armaments, once the reparations question is definitely settled.

YOU WOULD LISTEN

IF A MAN buttonholed your coat and told you to listen, you would listen—though he talked only of trivial things.

Advertisements use more courteous means to engage you. They know you are busy and await their turn —though what they have to say is important.

The full-page advertisement, the tiniest advertisement—each has its definite message. News of varities, prices, economies; of wares you can select wisely and purchase with utmost confidence. News packed into as few words as possible so as not to rob you of time.

They offer only the best. Inferior goods couldn't stand up under public inspection. They urge you to buy the best—to realize the savings made, the steps saved, the satisfaction gained through reading advertisements and buying advertised goods.

Give them audience—the large and the small. What they say profits you. That's why they say it.

Pepsinated Calomel Is Better than the Old- Time Sickening Kind

It is gentle, imported English Calomel, combined with Pepsin and other helpful ingredients. It is mild but certain, causing no harshness or unpleasantness and will absolutely get up hungry and feeling fine. Rec-

Indians Gather At Tulsa For A Big Pow Wow

Osages Arrive In Big Cars And Others Horseback

TULSA, Okla., June 9.—Indians, representing every tribe in the country, came pouring into Tulsa for the first "get-together" National meet, opened today at Sand Springs Park, near here.

The plutocratic Osages arrived in the finest limousines, while the Cheyennes, Kiowas, Quapaws, Pawnees, Iowas, Poncas, Otoes, Shawnees, Mohawks, Caddos, Sax and Fox, Arapahoes, Choctaws, Creeks, Seminoles, Crows, Snakes, Black Feet, Chippewas, and Pottowamies came in all manner of vehicles, on train and some on horseback.

Approximately 15,000 were expected to have arrived by noon today for the greatest Indian gathering in the history of the country.

Blanket Indians mingled with the ultra-modern Osages—"Brave Warriors" from Montana and Wyoming—paying rapt attention to the pretty eighth and sixteenth blood Indian girls.

Types of every description are crowded into the park with the proverbial "hunk of jerked beef" hanging on a pole in front of the tent. This "jerked beef" is said to be very fine when boiled.

Among the notables here are "Bacon Rind" the picturesque Osage, Blue Hair, of the Otoes, said to be 90 years old and H. C. Sicade, squally-puyallup tribe of Washington state.

LOWDEN LIKELY TO BE RUN BY G. O. P. FOR V. P.

CLEVELAND, June 9.—The republican convention is likely to "wish" the vice presidency on Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, despite his assertion that he did not want the place. "No man ever refused the vice presidency after he is chosen," delegations who announced that they would vote for him, declared. Senator Richard P. Ernst of Kentucky, a strong supporter of President Coolidge was designated as chairman of the rules committee of the convention.

By PAUL R. MALLON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 9.—The "Vice Presidential convention," as it has come to be called, now has an open battle on for selection of President Coolidge's running mate.

The statement, issued by former Governor Frank O. Lowden yesterday that he cannot accept the nomination, "even if it were tendered me," has thrown the lists open to all comers.

While still pointing out that if the convention simply stampeded for Lowden, the Illinoisan would be compelled to acquiesce, political leaders here are inclined to think that someone else will be nominated. Secretary of Commerce Hoover has reason to worry lest the choice fall in his direction, and Dr. Marion Leroy Burton of Michigan, who will nominate Coolidge, is now being openly, instead of quietly put out for reaction by Coolidge supporters.

In fact from Coast to Coast, the retirement of Lowden brought a veritable deluge of candidates. Senator Curtis of Kansas, drew much support from the women; Chas. B. Warren of Michigan was named as a strong potential contender; Senator Jones of Washington entered the lists, Frank B. Mondell was suggested but disavowed saying he was first, last and always for Lowden; General Dawes continued to receive mention and Chas. C. Chapman of California found himself the center of quite a boom.

Lodge Is Beaten By Massachusetts League of Women

By DOROTHY SHUMATE

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 9.—When Wanning H. Cox was elected Governor of Massachusetts last fall the managers of the Democratic campaign against him wrote and told him that he could thank the women voters for his election. When Governor Cox today was elected Chairman of the Massachusetts National convention some of the delegation whispered in his ear that he could thank the women again.

It isn't that the women love Governor Cox more; it is that they love Senator Henry Cabot Lodge less.

Ever since suffrage became an issue, the political minded women of the Cod-fish state have been drifting away from the loyalty that is supposed to be due their eldest statesman. The drift has carried them a long way—so far that today while they were at it, they helped finish Mr. Lodge completely so far as the present convention is concerned.

They even refused to let him have a place on the resolutions committee, instead they threw their support to Speaker Gillett.

The women have 16 members in the Massachusetts delegation—exactly one half of the total—and they are there not entirely as an expression of old fashioned Boston courtesy. They are a real power in the State. They have their own ideas of what constitutes a good Republican this year; their idea being that it is one who supports President Coolidge on all occasions. That lets Lodge out and by the same token, the women are interested in keeping him out.

The Massachusetts women who have already an equal reputation on the state central committee are taking a very active part in the effort to obtain equal reputation on the Republican National committee. The Democratic party has given this to the women and the fight for it at this convention of the Republicans is decidedly earnest. Having easily lined up their own members of the rules committee they are actively engaged in plugging the rules committee members from other state delegations.

Wisconsin Man Throws Bomb Into Plans Of G. O. P.

By ROBERT J. BENDER

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

CLEVELAND, June 9.—Senator Robert La Follette has challenged the Republican National convention to condemn and repudiate former attorney general Harry M. Daugherty and former secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall.

Furthermore he calls upon the convention for a ballot approving those Republicans who voted for the recent tax reduction bill, asks a Republican pledge not to support the Mellon tax program and demands applause for those Republicans instrumental in carrying on recent probes of alleged governmental irregularities.

Decision to toss this bomb into the calm and quiet of the convention proceedings was reached by the Wisconsin delegation at a meeting held last night. Following the meeting Gov. John J. Blaine, delegate at large from Wisconsin announced that the state's representative on the resolutions committee would be instructed to introduce and urge passage by the convention by these resolutions:

1. That congress be summoned into extraordinary session in July for the immediate consideration of agriculture, bonus, transportation and reclamation legislation.

2. That former Attorney General Daugherty be specifically condemned and repudiated by the Republican party and forever disbarred from holding any position of honor or trust under a Republican administration.

3. That former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall be specifically condemned and repudiated by the party and forever disbarred from holding any position of honor or trust under a republican administration.

4. That those Republicans who voted for the recent tax bill passed by this congress be commended and that the convention pledge itself that "neither the Mellon plan nor any other tax bill providing for unwarranted reductions in the super taxes on multi-millionaires shall receive the support of the Republican party."

5. That the individual Senators, Norris of Nebraska, Couzens of Michigan; Reed of Pennsylvania; Odie of Nevada; Howell of Nebraska; Brookhart of Iowa; Borah of Idaho

and LaFollette be commended for their efforts, respectively in opposing the Ford of Muscle Shoals, in uncovering prohibition and irregular revenue frauds; in disclosing graft and corruption in the veterans bureau; in disclosing prevalent conditions in that bureau; in exposing serious maladministration of the farm loan act; in department of justice scandals; in the probe of Senator Wheeler's indictment and in the oil investigation.

There are seven resolutions in all—each packing trouble and embarrassment for the administration if permitted to reach the stage of convention deliberation that will bring a vote. There is little likelihood, however, of the convention Chairman letting the resolutions get this far.

In demanding return of Congress July 7, LaFollette lists the following legislation as his reasons.

Emergency agriculture relief; funds to carry out provisions of the soldier bonus; the Howell-Barkley bill for settlement of disputes between carriers and their employees; reduction of railroad rates and reclamation relief.

The resolutions regarding Fall and Daugherty are identical. Each charges "gross betrayal of public trust" which has brought "Shame and discredit" upon the Republican party. The resolutions demand that the actions of each man be "Condemned and Repudiated as being incompatible with the principles and traditions of the Republican party" and that each man "be forever barred from holding any position of honor or trust within the gift either of the Republican party or of any future Republican administration."

In asking a vote of congratulation for the 31 Republican Senators and 211 Republican congressmen who voted for the recent tax bill substitution, for the Mellon plan, one resolution would pledge the convention "that neither the Mellon plan, nor any other tax bill providing for unwarranted reductions in the super-taxes of Multi-millionaires and profiteering corporations, shall receive the support of the Republican party in any future session of congress."

The resolution of commendation for those Senators who have been active in recent investigations follows the precedent set by the convention of four years ago in which praise for Congress and individuals was placed in the platform. The Wisconsin delegations resolutions puts the relief square up to the G. O. P.

Resolved that this convention extends its approval and the commendation to the following Republican members of the Senate for their exceptional services in the public interest and for the credit they have reflected upon the Republican party:

STUDENTS TO BE CALLED ON IN MURDER CASE IN CHICAGO

By EDWARD C. DEER

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, June 9.—Squads of officers from the office of State's Attorney R. E. Crowe invaded the university of Chicago campus today in search of students able to testify that Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, confessed slayers of Robert Franks, 14-year-old school boy, were sane. Believing that their case against Leopold and Loeb is "absolute" Crowe's aides started a secondary defense against the "defense." Assured that Clarence Darrow, chief defense counsel will attempt to save the two young college graduates from the gallows by proving them insane, the state is making effort to refute the test of alienists.

"We will get as many college friends of these boys as possible," an attache of Crowe's office said, "to tell what they know of the habits of Leopold and Loeb. We are sure that their stories will bear weight with a jury and will show that the murders were of sound mind."

"Testimony of those who knew Leopold and Loeb should mean much more than that of so-called expert alienists."

Crowe's staff, announced they had "new evidence" against the young intellectuals, who "just for the fun of it," kidnapped and killed young Franks. "The new evidence" it was consists of pencil-scribbled notes written by both Leopold and Loeb when their confessions were being read. Each took notes of the other's confession in order to check back on slight discrepancies.

These notes, it was explained, are in the youths' own hand writing and will be admitted as evidence even though the trial judges should throw out the actual confessions as evidence.

The notes much like those taken by college students at a class room lecture, were written hastily and abbreviated as the confessions were read to them.

"For Mexia, I WILL"

Wealth Versus Law Enforcement

The trial of the young murderers of the Franks boy will be watched with interest by citizens throughout the country. There is a rather widespread impression in America that the court system in the United States is so inefficient, that a criminal who has funds enough to employ the best legal brains can usually escape the proper penalty through the technical loopholes of the judicial system. Certainly the maximum penalty should be invoked. Should they be freed, the effect on the youth of the nation will be fraught with disastrous consequences. The only reason that the cold blooded murderers might escape justice is the fact that their parents are millionaires and they have announced that they will spend as much of it as necessary in the defense of their boys. They cannot be blamed for such a stand. Fathers generally like their mothers will stand by their children in the courts of the land.

The case will recall to many minds the trial of Leo Franks at Atlanta, Georgia, several years ago, when the wealth of a race backed the defense of that criminal before the bar.

The question will be answered again as to whether the law is impotent in cases where millions are available to employ the best criminal lawyers in this country. A good many people prefer to think that it is not and that the trial of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb will demonstrate the fact.

THE EDITORIAL OF THE DAY

YOUTHFUL LEISURE AND CRIME

Houston Post

The murder of a young boy by two well-behaved, wealthy youths in Chicago has aroused the thinking people of the Nation to a consideration of the relation of youth and crime.

As to what were the conditions out of which grew this particular crime, many opinions are being ventured. But that the crime should have been committed is not so strange. It has come to be a well recognized fact that the majority of the serious crimes are committed by young people between the ages of 17 and 27 years of age. And criminals of that age are not only the most desperate, but the most cunning.

Speaking of the youthful criminal, Chief Magistrate William McAdoo of New York says:

"The dangerous element is here—is the young man and woman. The gunman, burglar, highwayman, pick-pocket, narcotic peddler, blackmailer—and thief are almost without exception young men in their early twenties. What are we going to do with this—desperate army of young men and women?"

The answer is, of course, to change conditions under which the young people are being brought up. That is a large order. It involves the co-operation of many agencies, including first, the home, then the school and the church. The need to instill into the individual a sense of moral responsibility is apparent.

But there is one phase of the life of young people today that especially stands out as inimical to their welfare, and it can be easily corrected. That is, too many young people have too much leisure on their hands. There was never a truer adage than that "the idle brain is the devil's workshop."

We have come upon an age when parents are reluctant for their children to work. The goal of the average parent seems to be to shield their offspring from contact with labor. If they are looking forward to their children's engaging in labor at all, it is toward white collar job that they are looking. The result is that there is a great army of young people in America who are not engaged, or who are engaged for only a very limited part of their time, in any worthwhile pursuit. The larger part of their time they devote to a search for pleasure, or for "a thrill," as these unfortunate Chicago youths termed it. It is the same old spirit of adventure that has filled youth from time immemorial. Without the proper direction, that spirit is dangerous, and becomes a menace both to the individual youth and to the community.

The development of a maudlin sentiment against permitting children to work is one of the unwholesome signs of the times. It has resulted in the submission by congress to the States of a constitutional amendment to abolish "child labor." The effects of that amendment would be bad enough if they were confined to the encroachment upon the domains of the State and of the homes of the people, but of greater significance, will be its tendency to throw more children into idleness, depriving them of an opportunity to work and learn to do things and to be independent and giving them more time for pleasures, many of which will be of doubtful character.

No decent and sensible person advocates hard, grinding toil for young people, but a certain amount of honest toil is helpful to the growing youth, and fits him for life later on. The great majority of the men and women who are accomplishing something in the world are those who worked in their youth and did not fritter away their time in pleasure.

Before rushing to ratify this amendment, legislators could profitably study the relation of idle youth and crime.

Women should remember that as a persuader a kiss always discounts a rolling pin.

Makers of Mexia

JOHN SWEATT

President Chamber of Commerce

There are many men who may justly claim to have had a part in the building of Mexia. There are many women who may say with truth that they have contributed to the glory of this community.

There are hundreds of men and women here who have done their part toward the development and betterment of Mexia and this section of Texas, else the community could not be what it is today.

But there are some whose work has been outstanding whose accomplishments have been noteworthy along certain well defined lines. They are the leaders of this community who pointed to the work which was to be done before the city could justly claim the title of being the city that vision is building and before the community could accomplish its destiny.

The subject today is "John Sweatt" who has given the past year to gratuitous service as president of the Mexia Chamber of Commerce. It has been a difficult place and an office that required the greatest sacrifice on the part of the one occupying it. It is an office that no man aspires to, but one that is necessary and one which must be occupied by the very best of men in order for the organization to perform the service for which it is created and financed.

Mr. Sweatt has been connected with the Chamber of Commerce during a period when it was face to face with a big and difficult program. Not all of the worthy things desired have been achieved but sufficient of them have been carried to a successful culmination as to make the administration one of pronounced success and worth every dollar and then some put into the Chamber of Commerce for its maintenance. Also, during the past few months, movements have been gotten under way which the next year may see accomplished in a most worthy way and for the good and glory of Mexia and its expanding trade territory.

He has the gratitude of every citizen for his services so freely given and as the future years roll around the community knows that it may depend upon him, as a loyal citizen, to contribute of his time, his interest, his money and his best thought to the continued growth of the best section of the best state in the best country of all the world—our home community.

WOMAN FLEEING TO DRUG STORE EXCITES CROWD

Seemed Much Distressed Over Condition At Her Home— Officer Investigates

"Oh, it's all right now, or soon will be," answered the excited little woman to the inquiry of the officer who had followed her in the mad dash to the drug store and pushed his way through the crowd that had gathered.

"You see, my husband brought home a microscope and it was very interesting until we put a fly under it. But when I saw that fly's feet and realized it had been dragging that filth over our dishes and food, and oh, most shocking of all, on my baby's face, I just couldn't endure the thought."

"So I ran over here to get some Fly-Flu quick. I am not going to let any more filthy flies stay in my house."

"You've got sense," replied the officer. "There's never a fly, roach, mosquito, or any other insect pest that lives around our house, since we began keeping Fly-Flu on hand." "Fly-Flu is deadly destructive to every flying, crawling insect or bug. Substitutes can't and won't do the work and are often dangerous to use. Besides being an instant destroyer of all insect life, Fly-Flu is a deodorant—it sweetens everything it touches, but is odorless, stainless and perfectly harmless to humans and plants."

British Praise American Girl On Tennis Court

LONDON, June 9.—English sport critics today agreed that Helen Wills, American woman Tennis Champion, showed form superior to anything she has displayed in this country in exhibition sets against strong men players at Harpenden Friday.

Thousands of spectators and many prominent English Tennis players were on the sidelines to watch the California girl in action.

"They were greatly charmed both by the play and the demeanor of the American girl," one critic said.

Miss Wills played F. H. Jarvis first, winning uncertainly and serving many double faults. She lost the first two games then started hitting with great power and won the set 8-6.

The Californian maintained her wonderful speed against D. H. Grief, her next opponent, but tired somewhat and lost 9 to 7.

MONDELL TO PRESIDE AT G. O. P. MEET.

FRANK W. MONDELL

Frank W. Mondell, of Wyoming, former floor leader in the House of Representatives and now chairman of the War Finance Corporation, has been selected to be permanent chairman of the Republican National Convention in Cleveland, O.

CHAIRMAN BURTON TYPICAL OF OLD GUARD IN POLITICS

CLEVELAND, June 9 (United Press).—Theodore E. Burton, the lean and dignified temporary chairman of the Republican National Convention, typifies exactly in his somewhat character of the present national administration—the administration which, following the convention here, will appeal to the country for a return to power.

When Burton gets up to speak, his audience will know better than to expect any of these things from him: Flights of oratory; Attempts at humor; Funny stories.

His address of welcome to the convention and his keynote for the campaign will be cut from a sober pattern, with none of the new fol-de-rols of the young political generation. It will be a straightforward conservative model, of the sort Burton was brought upon, politically.

Yet Burton has considerable skill as a party orator. He knows, as the result of many years in congress, how to array his facts to capture the attention of his hearers. He has an easy task here, for the audience he faces will be a strongly pro-Coolidge audience—practically a unanimously Coolidge audience, in fact. He will not have to combat the hostility of delegates favoring some other candidate. They will be ready to cheer every mention of the present administration and its head.

A Native of Ohio, Burton, chosen by President Coolidge himself for the keynoting position has served a long and useful career in his party. He is a native of these parts, having been born in Jefferson, Ohio, in 1851, which makes him 73. His education was calculated to make of him the sober, conservative person he has always been, for he attended Oberlin college, an Ohio institution noted for the earnestness of its educational purpose. Later he went to Dartmouth and New York universities.

Back in 1875, before Cleveland began shouting about its size and got into rivalry with Detroit over which was bigger, Burton hung out his lawyer's shingle here. In those days some of the mightiest men of the law in this section were getting under way and you had to be a pretty thorough lawyer to compete with them. Burton got along.

He got along so well that in 1888 he was elected to the House of Representatives serving in the 51st and 54th congresses, and then right along to the 60th. Once he got into congress, Burton soon became known as a devotee of facts. He would pursue a fact to its lair in a mountain of statistics, and drag it relentlessly forth. He also developed a strong party loyalty which brought him to the notice of the leaders. Burton didn't have to be told what to do; he had a mind of his own that made itself up, but the party leaders were pleased to find that his mind usually made itself up their way.

Burton soon came to the front as a waterways expert. He studied the question of inland waterways from every angle, one of these being the angle of "pork." In those days the rivers and harbors appropriation bill was the choice medium of those who wanted to get something for the folks at home out of the public treasury, as a means of continuing in politics. Many a dusty stream had good money spent on it in this manner.

Fought Against "Pork."

Burton set out to fight this practice. The climax of his fight came in the senate, to which body he was elevated by his state in 1900. There he, with the help of progressives, principally Senator Kenyon of Iowa, conducted an all night filibuster against a rivers and harbors bill full of "pork." Burton put on carpet slippers and a bathrobe and drank milk while he read into the records a mass of words from some ponderous tome, in order to keep the senate from acting on the bill.

Along with his expert knowledge concerning waterways, Burton acquired an equally expert knowledge of

Major Parties Divide The Air

CLEVELAND, June 9.—Radio will broadcast the keynote speech of Representative Theodore E. Burton before the Republican National Convention here tomorrow to the four corners of the country.

Special arrangements have been perfected whereby Burton's speech will be audible to everybody who cares to listen to it. A number of the biggest stations in the country will take care of relaying it.

This is part of a special agreement between the Republican and Democratic national committees for a "division of the air" during the

finance. So when he retired from the senate in 1915, he went into banking, and until he reentered public life in 1920, as a member of the House, he was a banker. He was chosen by President Harding as a member of the American commission to fund the European war debts.

Burton is a bachelor. He is a tall, thin homely man, with a severe look on his face. He looks like one whom the ordinary gayeties and frivolities of life have entirely passed by, principally because he never held out his hand to stop any of them.

campaign. Realizing that the radio, for the first time, will be one of the principal means of campaigning Cordell Hull, the Democratic chairman, and John T. Adams, Republican chief, got together in Washington some weeks ago to map out an equitable division of radio facilities, so that neither party would obtain an advantage over the other.

Under this arrangement, which has been ratified by the leading broadcasters, the air will thus be bipartisan.

SPENT FORTUNE BEFORE SHE FOUND HER HEALTH

Mrs. Vanter Failed to Get Relief Until She Took Tanlac.

"I had suffered a long time and spent lots of money before I found the right medicine for my troubles, but since I found the right one I have stuck to it," recently said Mrs. S. E. Vanter, 114 Aganier Ave., San Antonio, Texas, in a statement in which she praises Tanlac for restoring and maintaining her health. "Tanlac started me on the mend from the very first dose and in less than a month I was feeling like a new woman. Before that my stomach would go wrong every two or three days whether I ate much or little, and gas bloating, cramping pains and nervous headaches tortured me daily."

"I could not sleep half enough and got up mornings feeling nauseated and without the least desire for breakfast. This condition kept

"I couldn't seem to satisfy my appetite, everything agreed with me and strength came back and I was like a person made over. Since then I have relied on Tanlac to keep up my health and it has not failed me. In fact a bottle of Tanlac now and then keeps me enjoying the best of health. I never have any trouble with my stomach and nerves, I sleep like a child and have energy in reserve. Tanlac came as an unexpected blessing to me and I do not hesitate to praise it to everybody."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept No Substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

SUPERB PITCHING AND STRONG SUPPORT WIN FOR MEXIA

Peel Pitches A Great Game Before Big Crowd

By HECK

Backing Everett Peel's superb pitching with air tight support the Gushers won the opening game of the series from the Corsicana Oilers at the ball yard Sunday before a big crowd and thusly knocked the tribe of Johnny Vann out of first place as the Waco Indians won from Austin while Marlin kept ahead of the Gushers by winning over Temple. The game was strictly a pitchers battle with Peel getting the better of Arguijo in every department except wildness but as none of Peel's passes proved a run getter that fact does not mar his splendid performance against the hard-hitting Oilers. Mexia scored first the second frame when Jones opened the round with a single to right. Having bunted a sacrifice to Thornton, Bryan singled to left but Etheridge held Jones on third with a fast relay. Leedy hit a long drive over Brown's head in center that the wind caught enough to hold it within the park and the Oilers center fielder made the catch against the center field fence and Jones trotted over the pan with what proved the winning run. On a still day Leedy's drive would have wrecked the new courthouse at Groesbeck. Another tally was added in the third when Harding was safe while Sain was throwing out the Skipper at second. A passed ball put the big first sacker on second and he scored a moment later on Butler's single to center. The last counter came over in the eighth when Butler opened the round with a triple down the right field foul line and the pellet kindly hid behind the club house while Otis legged it to third and tallied a moment later on Joe Heving's double to left. The Oilers threatened in the fifth when Barrett opened the frame with a walk and was thrown out. Fowlkes to Squib, when he attempted to steal on the first pitched ball—looked like poor baseball at this stage of the game. Malmquist also worked Everett for a pass but Sain and Vann were taken care of by the fast working Gusher infield. Arguijo opened the sixth with a single to center but was caught on the next play when Etheridge hit to Geppert and the Teague flash completed a fast double play. Things looked bad for a moment in the ninth when Grubb opened the frame with a double to right-center and Thornton worked Peel for a pass. Brown hit a long foul to left but Butler was waiting on the line for the play and made a great catch near the east fence. Barrett was up and things still looked bad but Geppert grabbed his hard drive and completed a fast double play to Harding for the game's finish. Skipper Fowlkes worked Peel in masterful fashion from behind the plate and easily threw out Thornton and Barrett in their attempts to steal. The heavy hitting Oilers were helpless before Peel and the kid deserves the credit due him for his great work. Geppert's work at short was fast as well as brilliant as was the work of Jones and Leedy all of whom made great stops and throws. Butler handled five of the six putouts handled by the outfield and three of his catches were easily worth the money. Joe Heving handled the other outer garden putout and was with two on the sacks and two in the ash can when Sain hit a high drive that I thought Joe had misjudged but the lanky bird made a great run and made the catch. Corsicana again today and it looks like Carl Hill against either Crockett or Gerhardt the little southpaw. Carl should beat either and here's hoping there is a great multitude on hand to see the fracas. If you fans get out there and stay behind the gang you will soon see them on top of the ladder. Glenwood blocks joins the Gushers today and will take his regular turn on the mound and this boy should make the Gushers hard to catch from now on. Meeks has been a consistent winner with Marlin and why Alexander let him go is a mystery.

Five-Mile Double-Line of Cars In Maccabees Caravan

DETROIT — Largest problem ever undertaken in automobile transport is that of the Maccabees motor caravan which will be concentrated at Washington in the summer of 1925. According to plans made public by A. W. Frye, supreme commander of the Maccabees, at headquarters of the fraternal benevolent order here, the state caravans will muster more than 2,000 automobiles.

"When mobilized in a solid body the Maccabees automobile caravan could enter Washington two abreast in a procession five miles long," said Mr. Frye. With the silent bands and sectional leaders the total number of persons will be half the size of a regular army division.

"Army transport veterans are cooperating with the American Automobile Association in planning the service of gasoline, oil, emergency repairs, and other supplies for this unprecedented army of automobiles. Methods of parking the caravan in Washington are being worked out with the War Department.

"The Maccabees caravan will consume more than $1,000,000 worth of food while in the National Capital. It will spend $70,000 for gasoline in the two weeks and, it is estimated, will leave $2,000,000 more in Washington.

The caravan is composed of representatives of the more than 200,000 members of the Maccabees who are organized in 4,500 local tents throughout the United States and Canada. It is probable that fellow members will accompany the caravan in such numbers as nearly to double its size. Registrations already on file with state commanders insure that it will be the greatest automobile army ever assembled by any one organization.

Ankles, Knees and Brains Worry Philadelphia Talkers

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—What has the size of a woman's ankle to do with the size of her brain?

The question is perturbing biologists and scientists of Philadelphia following the decree of Paul Poirer, French fashion dictator, that "thick ankles mean weak knees and tiny brains."

A poll of ten Philadelphia women, picked at random, revealed the fact that seven of them had thin ankles, nine of them strong knees and ten of them bright brains.

"This is all nonsense," declared one clubwoman. "If a woman has any sense she doesn't allow her ankles to become thick. It seems to me that this answers your question. Diet and the proper amount of exercise will keep women from slopping over at the ankles, and any sensible woman will see to it that she has the proper diet and exercise."

"M. Poirer is correct," said another. "The woman who gets out and does things, the woman who has the real sense, doesn't take time to see that her ankles are thin! It is only the flighty young woman who likes to show her ankles on a dance floor or on the street that gives thought to such things."

"Look at the girls at Bryn Mawr. I doubt if you could find a more brainy or sensible lot of girls. Yet, generally speaking, Bryn Mawr is a big-ankle college—big ankle, strong kneed and big brained."

One of Philadelphia's students of psychology is inclined to take the view that there really is no connection between the size of the ankle and the depth of the brain of a woman.

Boxing Enigma To Be Solved

NEW YORK, June 9.—Tonight at Queensboro Stadium, weather permitting, the wraps come off a true dark horse of the ring, and fans will learn whether Harry Wills, that Ethiopian enigma, represents a potential million dollars or is headed back to the docks.

The big black, long kept in the back ground by broken hands and broken contracts, has become a sort of bogie man of fisticuffs.

Even that promising new-comer to Hollywood, Jack Dempsey, on his road to a million dollar gate with Senor Kirpo, chose a path around the wood where the black panther prowled.

Upon the willing shoulders of a stout hearted Irish lad, one Bartley Madden, who meets Wills over the 15 round route tonight if it doesn't rain, has been placed the task of deciding whether Harry is headed on up to fistic fortune or back to the wide spaces of the river front, where Men are longshoremen.

Butler The Silent To Steer Campaign

CLEVELAND, June 9.—(United Press.)—In keeping with the silent nature of his chief—Calvin Coolidge—all noise will be eliminated from the Republican machine with William Morgan Butler of Massachusetts at the wheel. The President has already named Butler to manage his campaign and he will be selected as chairman of the new Republican National Committee when it organizes this week.

A product of the "Iceni" school of politics, established in Massachusetts by the late Senator Murray Crane, Butler learned to saw wood while the other fellow whooped things up.

While Crane had the reputation of never having raised his voice above a whisper, Butler talks out loud when he speaks—but he seldom speaks. What he lacks as a conservationist, he makes up as a listener.

What could be more natural for President Coolidge, himself the "star" pupil of the noisless Crane, to select the close-mouthed, efficient, businessman-politician, as the director of his campaign for election to the Presidency?

Although the stocky, well-groomed Boston lawyer presents the typical picture of the big business man that he is, he was not born with a silver spoon in his mouth. Born Jan. 29, 1861, in the old whaling village of New Bedford, Mass., the son of a Methodist minister, Butler had a hard row to hoe before he reached success and affluence.

This descendant of a long line of Cape Codders was once a clerk in a general store while he was studying law. After practicing in his hometown for a few years, Butler was elected to the legislature in 1890. He went "down" to Boston in a $12 blue serge suit, as "green" as they come, but he was not long in demonstrating his ability and attracting the attention of "Uncle Murray" Crane.

Two years later, he was elected to the State Senate, and then president of the Senate. That was the highest political office Butler ever held. Although taking an inconspicuous part in active politics, he has had a hand in most of the major politics in Massachusetts ever since.

Always a conservative, Butler has gone along with the Republican organization in the Bay State as one of the elder advisers, contributing liberally in all campaigns. With the death of Murray Crane, he became the leader of the Crane faction in Massachusetts.

Butler early gave up his political career for the law business. He opened a law office in Boston and soon developed a large corporate practice. Then he bought an interest in a cotton mill in New Bedford. That was the foundation of his fortune, for now a

COOKING is a fine art, says Baroness Tamara Steinhell, whom the fortunes of war have brought from her native Russian Caucasus to New York, where she is utilizing as a means of livelihood an art which formerly served her as a diversion—the painting of scarfs in vivid, exotic colorings. Baroness Steinhell is also an author and musician of no slight merit, but like many of her countrywomen she does not disdain the homelier but no less important art of cooking, and has dozens of delightful recipes literally at her finger's ends.

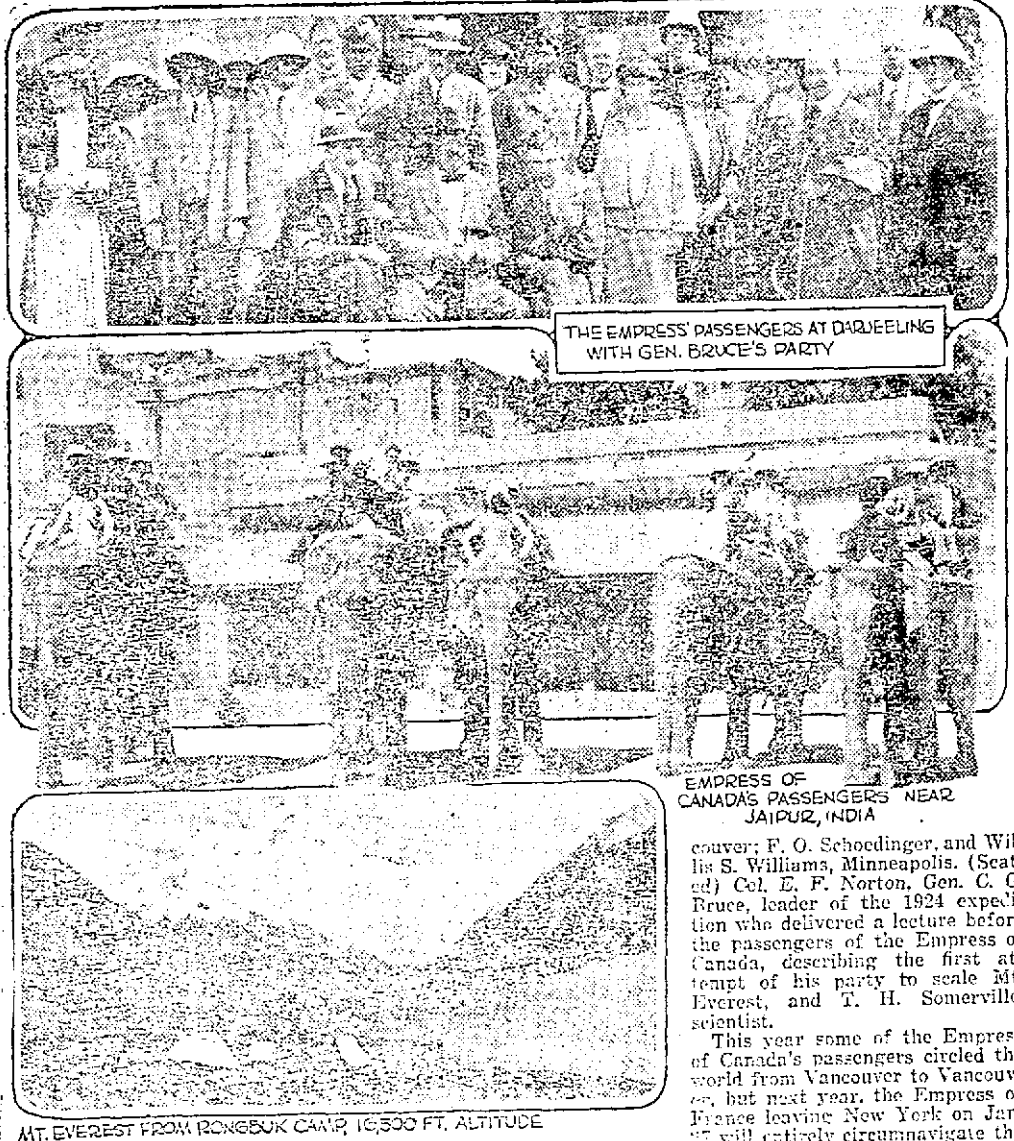

She has consented to give us her recipe for "Plov," a native dish of the Russian Caucasus:

Boil 4 cups of rice in 2 quarts of water so that the kernels are not too soft and are separate. Put in sieve and wash with ice water so that each kernel stands alone. Dry rice with cloth and put in frying pan under the flame and shake until it is completely dried out.

In a separate pot, boil 1 cup of raisins and 1/2 cup of dried peaches until they are soft. Dry them with cloth and put in 1/2 cup of crisco which has come to the boiling point. Put fruit and crisco in with rice and stir steadily over slow fire until finished.

This year some of the Empress of Canada's passengers circled the world from Vancouver to Vancouver, but next year, the Empress of France leaving New York on Jan. 25 will entirely circumnavigate the globe from New York to New York via the Panama Canal. Globe trotting by water, with land excursions galore, has become quite the fashion nowadays. Shakespeare's Puck, far in advance of his time and the dreaming of the swiftness of media, said he could put a girdle around the earth in 40 minutes.

A modern, luxurious steamship like the Empress of Canada or the Empress of France, when compared with the sailing ships of the past, is as wonderful in its way as speed, and today's globe circlers see the strange wonders of the world in comfort and under circumstances never dreamed of by the early explorers who sailed the Seven Seas.

Your round-the-world tourists nowadays has a wonderful opportunity to see not only the strange countries of the globe, but also the outstanding figures in the world's news. For several years past, the entire civilized world has been watching the efforts made by Gen. C. G. Bruce and his party to conquer Mt. Everest, the giant peak of Asia rising more than 29,000 ft. above sea level and the highest mountain in the world. Recently, the passengers of the Empress of Canada, according to the globe from New York to Vancouver, made a side trip of 700 miles to Darjeeling, where they met Gen. FLAPPERS 200 YEARS AGO

"Style changes, but since the time of Salvino himself there have always been styles. Two hundred years ago the nobles of France and England indulged their eyesight with an exceedingly dainty little lens, which they called a quiz glass. The name is pertinent. The little glass itself, mounted in its beautifully chased gold frame, something like a watch indeed hath a quizzical look. One can picture floundered, brocaded, and powdered ladies of the Court training it with telling effect. The lorgnette is its granddaughter, and the monocle, so natty with stick and spats, aw, rully—its grandson.

"These sporting glasses—the great roistering fellows with heavy horn frames—are a direct importation from China, but not the China of today. The same China which supplied the world with gunpowder and the compass. The creative China of the middle centuries. A great many scholars credit China and not Salvino, the Monk, with the invention of spectacles.

"The Chinese ground their first lenses out of solid blocks and topaz, and the greater the man the larger his spectacles. The Chinese still wear horn-rimmed spectacles, but they buy them in America, for this far sighted young country dominated the eye-glass market, as it does a number of others.

"Horn and leather goggles were popular in Europe in the 17th century the leader of frames being particularly convenient for horsemen. Aviator goggles are a harking back to the general principles of the leather frame goggles."

Perhaps the average woman loves to go shopping because she thinks there is something in store for her.

England To Send 400 To Olympic Games

By P. M. SARRL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, June 9.—With the exception of the boxing and cross-country teams, the British Olympic competitors have not yet been chosen, and the field and track contestants will not be finally selected until after the Amateur Athletic Championships on June 20 and 21.

However, the British Olympic Association reckons on sending to Paris a team numbering some 400 competitors, a number in excess of all previous efforts. This, despite the comparative lack of interest in Olympics in this country and the disinclination of many of the governing bodies of the various branches of sport to select teams at the bidding of the British Olympic Association.

Among all the nations competing in the Olympiads, Britain, for many years reckoned as the cradle of sport, is the worst organized. The British Olympic Association is a relatively helpless body, which does nothing but supply funds and arrange hotel accommodation for competitors, and receives very little support from the various governing bodies of British sport.

The different governing bodies are old-standing institutions, while the British Olympic Association is comparatively a newcomer. And none of the governing bodies is willing to concede the B. O. A. any sort of jurisdiction over their own particular branch of sport. And there is no possible way of enforcing the authority of the body responsible for the turning out of an international team to represent Great Britain at the Olympic games. Some bodies flatly refuse to have anything to do with the Olympics.

Britain will doubtless be strongly represented at polo, because the games happen to coincide with the height of the British polo season, and it is not very far to send to Paris. However, the polo authorities indicated very plainly that the International trial matches for the forthcoming England vs. America matches at Meadowbrook, as well as the Hurlingham, Ranelagh and Roehampton challenge cups and championships, were of far more importance than Olympic polo, and they even managed to secure a postponement of the original date to fit in with the biggest British home matches.

Dramatic And Musical Recital Enjoyable Affair

The Methodist church was comfortably filled Friday night by relatives and friends of the pupils of Mrs. E. L. Strange and Mrs. Sam B. Werner who assembled to witness the recital presented by the little ones.

The program consisted of drills, readings and musical numbers and the different numbers were presented in a manner that showed careful training and application, and Mrs. Strange and Mrs. Werner should be proud of their work with these children.

The program was sufficiently long to forego encores, but one number by little Mary Jane Crow was too good and the audience insisted on a further reading by the little miss, which she graciously responded to with another cute reading.

Space will not permit of special mention of each number, but all deserved it.

The pupils are, all little tots, ranging in age from 3 to 10, and their numbers were all heartily enjoyed by the audience, and many beautiful floral offerings were sent up to the little ones.

HAVE YOU BEEN SOLICITED THIS WAY OF LATE?

Progress is being made even in campaigning. Here's the latest method. The candidate goes into a store or place of business or somewhere else where some voters are talking together. He greets all graciously, says "have a card" and something about grasshoppers or some other subject. About that time a friend shows up, greets the candidate boisterously and cordially. They pass a few friendly words and the candidate passes on to some other point previously agreed on and the friend then makes the campaign talk which usually assumes the form of what a fine fellow the candidate is. After he finishes, he retreats and meets the candidate again and so on, time after time, reminding one of the story of the ten little bottles setting on the wall. It is claimed that the plan is very successful, but the women in politics are going to have a little trouble adopting it, as they prefer to speak for themselves.

Mr. Jimmie Anderson and sister, Mrs. Mary Henson, are planning a visit to the old home, in Denmark and while away will visit other points in Europe.

CHARGE PLOT TO "FRAME" SENATOR.

Above: GASTON B. MEANS & BURTON K. WHEELER. Below: MRS. W. O. DUCKSTEIN & W. O. DUCKSTEIN.

W. O. Duckstein, confidential adviser to Edward B. McLean, owner of the Washington Post, and his wife, Mrs. Mary Duckstein, confidential stenographer in the Department of Justice, startled the Senate Committee investigating the Department by alleging there was a plot to "frame" U. S. Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, chief prosecutor. They further testified that the famous diaries of Gaston B. Means, ex-investigator in the Department, had been stolen by agents who purported to be representing H. C. Todd, special assistant to former Attorney-General Harry M. Dougherty.

And those opposed shall have on their ballots the following:

"Against the adoption of the Charter prepared by the Charter Commission duly elected on the 18th day of March, 1924, and which was reported by said Charter Commission to the City Commission of the City of Mexia on the 27th day of May, 1924."

Section 7. A copy of this ordinance shall be sufficient notice of said election, and thirty (30) days notice of the time and place of holding the said election shall be given by posting certified copies thereof at the places designated for holding said election at least thirty (30) days prior to the holding of said election, and by publication of such notice not less than thirty (30) full days from date of election.

Section 8. The fact that the City of Mexia is at the present time without a charter and that the public interests require the adoption of a charter, creates an emergency and an imperative public necessity for the suspension of the rules requiring ordinances to be read upon more than one day and for the immediate taking effect of this ordinance, and such rules are hereby suspended, and it is ordained that this ordinance shall take effect immediately upon its passage and approval.

Passed and approved this 27th

Ex-Gov. Lowden In Limelight For Vice-Presidency

CLEVELAND, June 9 (United Press).—Frank Orren Lowden once came within the proverbial ace of becoming the nominee of the party for the presidency. That was no longer ago than the last national convention. All through the conventional ball, and in hotel corridors, the word was heard that on the morrow Lowden would be swept across the line separating a certainty.

But there was a hitch—a hitch that was not Lowden's fault, but that of some of his over-enthusiastic henchmen. And on the morrow another was nominated.

Since that time, Lowden has been living quietly, glad, if the truth were told, to be out of the fierce limelight of public life. Now his party speaks of him again in connection with the vice-presidency. He will have a strong following in the national convention here for that post and unless his compatriot from Illinois, "Hell and Maria" Dawes is chosen, Lowden seems to have a good chance.

Lowden is a son of Minnesota. He was born in Sunrise City, which was so named, according to rumor, because everybody who lives there gets up to see the sun come up.

Just to keep his middle western view point on straight, Lowden attended Iowa University and there contracted a habit of lending his classes that followed him to Union law college in Chicago. He was valedictorian at both institutions, which speaks something for the character of his scholarship and his ability to buckle down to work.

The law and good government have always been Lowden's hobbies. He also likes blooded cattle and farming in all its phases.

He practiced law for a good many years, finding time also to teach it at Northwestern University. He married, in 1896, Florence Pullman, daughter of the man who headed the Pullman Car Company.

Lowden served in the House in the 59th, 60th and 61st congress, and was a member of the Republican national committee from 1904 to 1912. He was one of the executive committee that conducted the national campaign of 1904 and 1908. In 1917 he was elected governor of Illinois, serving until 1921.

Lowden has one of the most pleasing personalities in public life. He combines dignity with geniality. He makes a good speech, and has a fully developed mind that works on all cylinders when he tackles a problem. Lowden is fond of outdoor life. He is 63 years old.

Mrs. James A. Stillman has announced the engagement of her daughter, Anne, to H. P. Davison, son of the late H. P. Davison, former partner of J. P. Morgan & Co., and former head of the Bell Cross. Miss Stillman is the daughter of James A. Stillman, former president of the National City Bank, of New York, and when her father began his famous unsuccessful divorce suit she remained with her mother, but remained on good terms with both parents. Mr. Davison won several valor medals as an aviator in bombing German submarine bases in the World War.

WARREN ARRIVES WITH PLANKS FOR PARTY PLATFORM

CLEVELAND, June 9.—Elimination of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge as an important factor in the Republican convention and capitulation of Senator James Watson and others to President Coolidge's insistence on a plank recommending American participation in the existing World Court at the Hague, makes it possible now to set forth this year's platform in its important details.

Chas. B. Warren, who will be the chairman of platform committee, has arrived with the main planks already decided upon by Coolidge supporters and his will be the job of putting through the platform with as little delay and opposition as possible.

As always, the party principles will be led off with a preamble setting forth the accomplishments of the Harding-Coolidge administration—the improvement of business conditions, economies effected from the budget system, tax reduction and increased revenue obtained from the tariff act; reduction of the national debt and beneficial legislation passed for various classes of the population.

Among the planks will be:

1. While much has been done to improve conditions in agriculture there is still more to be done in the direction of co-operative marketing as advocated by the platform of 1920; there should be readjustment of freight rates.

2. The Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway should be opened and interior waterways improved to afford an outlet for agricultural areas.

3. A taxation plan similar to that proposed by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

4. The prohibition law should be enforced because disregard of any law begets disrespect for all law.

5. Rigid economy in public expenses and a firm stand against any "pork barrel" legislation.

6. Support of the constitutional amendment to prevent child labor.

7. Support of a constitutional amendment providing terms of the President and member of congress will open.

begin in January following the election instead of March.

8. Conservative regulation of corporations.

9. Extension of the merit system to decrease problems of patronage.

10. Extension of American loans for rehabilitation and development of Europe, once the foreign countries accept the recommendation of the Dawes committee.

11. American participation in the International court of justice established and now functioning at the Hague.

12. The calling of a conference for a further limitation of armaments, once the reparations question is definitely settled.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR EASTERN STAR ALL DAY MEETING

Arrangements are complete for the all day School of Instruction by the Eastern Stars of Mexia Tuesday. Plans will be discussed at the regular meeting of the order tonight at the Masonic Temple. A full attendance of members and visitors is hoped for and expected Tuesday, when at 9:00 o'clock the morning session will open.

YOU WOULD LISTEN

IF A MAN buttonholed your coat and told you to listen, you would listen—though he talked only of trivial things.

Advertisements use more courteous means to engage you. They know you are busy and await their turn—though what they have to say is important.

The full-page advertisement, the tiniest advertisement—each has its definite message. News of varieties, prices, economies; of wares you can select wisely and purchase with utmost confidence. News packed into as few words as possible so as not to rob you of time.

They offer only the best. Inferior goods couldn't stand up under public inspection. They urge you to buy the best—to realize the savings made, the steps saved, the satisfaction gained through reading advertisements and buying advertised goods.

Give them audience—the large and the small. What they say profits you. That's why they say it.

Advertising is your wisest counselor in the spending of money.
